Commissioner of Agriculture, T. F. Peck, in a statement urging war on the corn borer, says: "Farmers can minimize its inroads and spread by destroying the places for it to winter, burning rubbish, dead weeds and drift and cleaning out fence rows and waste matter of every character." In heading off the corn borer, the commissioner states, the spread of the ball weevil and other insect pests injurious to field crops may also be checked. Care in seed selection for next season's crop is stressed.

The general program of state road building which has been interrupted several weeks on account of a ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission giving priority to movement of coal over road materials, is expected to be in full swing again in the next two weeks following a rescinding of the order by the Commission. The Commission's new order covering the situation which permits the use of open top cars for transporting road materials was issued at the instance of the State Highway Department, the Public Utilities Commission and the N. C. & St. L. Railway.

Governor-elect Peay, in declining an invitation to be the honor guest at a meeting of the Nashville Life Underwriters' Association set for November 23, assigned as his reason that his time would be occupied fully from now until the convening of the Legislature in attending to the details of his private business, long neglected during his two campaigns, in preparing for the actual opening of the Legislature and in answering many hundreds of communications relating to his recent campaign and election and to public business. The reply further stated that he would make no public appearance of any kind before the Legislature convened.

Commissioner D. J. Frazer of the State Food & Drug Department, following a conference with department inspectors, has announced a strict enforcement program against the sale of Jamaica ginger for beverage purposes. According to the Commissioner Jamaica ginger preparations which he reports are being sold extensively in some sections of the state are damaging to health on account of the alcohol they contain. Attention is called to the fact that under the State law it is illegal to sell any but standard or "single strength" tincture or essence of ginger and that under the Federal law a government license is necessary unless the ginger is "double strength".

In commenting on the general opening of the quail season November 15, State Game Warden Claude Williams calls attention to the fact that the season in many counties does not begin until December 1 and asks that hunters be sure to advise themselves of the law as it affects particular counties before undertaking to shoot quail therein. The Warden reports that the partridge crop this season is unusually large. He also reports that there have been only about

Man's Rejection of God's Way

BY REV. D. MILTON McCAULEY

The most peculiar attribute to be found in man is the nature to rebel against God. Since Satan deceived man and caused him to sever the relationship he had with God; man has desired to have ways of his own. He has always found a substitute for religion.

Old father Adam found a substitute for religion; and his place was no longer found in Eden and all of us have been sweating ever since. His son Cain found a substitute for religion and he became a Globe-Trotter; searching for some one to take his life.

In the days of Noah the people found a substitute for religion and they were drowned in their beds or swam around with snakes and pigs, bellowing cattle and frightened tigers until their meager strength gave out and they went under.

Babylon found a substitute for religion; and it takes the skill of archaeology to discover her habitations.

Greece found a substitute for religion; and her marble temples are in ruins and her proud and beautiful face is scattered over the face of the earth, running banana stands and boot-black chairs.

Rome found a substitute for religion and her victorious eagles which had covered with their wings; the world's known Empire, becomes like chattering magpies.

Nepoleon found a substitute for religion. He defied martial power. He claimed that God spoke by gun powder through the mouth of brazen artillery; and at the time he had reached the zenith of his power and glory, he was forced to abdicate and soon surrendered to the enemy and died in exile in St. Helena.

Germany found a substitute for religion in martial power and the worship of a blood-thirsty Kaiser; and she wrecked herself and almost wrecked the world.

Russia found a substitute for religion in a scientific communism, based upon pure reason; and she is a bloody shambles, welting and starving her own sins.

America has found a substitute for religion and our beloved land has many times been thrown into chaos; while our boys and girls are jazzing to hell. The person or nation that finds a substitute for religion will go the path of the unfortunate into the eternal regions. THE WICKED SHALL BE TURNED INTO HELL AND ALL THE NATIONS THAT FORGET GOD. The Church is the only thing that will save AMERICA or any other nation. Let not the Church substitute formality for religion.

half as many violations of the quail shooting law in the State compared with any previous year. The opening season for ducks began November 1 and will continue until January 31. The federal law ends the dove season December 15. The squirrel and turkey season will end December 31. There is no closed season in Tennessee for larger game except deer in a few East Tennessee counties. Rabbits are included in this class along with bears

Luke Brown Writes Interesting Letter From North-West--Kills Bear After Keeping It 18 Months.

Ringling Montana
Nov. 3, 1922.

Dear old Sentinel:

It has just been 20 short years since I dropped you a line this snowy night. We have about ten inches of snow here, but its not very cold yet, but its a bad storm for this time of year.

We had a nice summer up here, it being warm most of the time, and I was busy most all the time. The Mid Northern Oil Co., started to drill for oil about 11-2 miles from my place. I got the contract to do the hauling, and I had 8 and 10 four-horse teams on all summer, and put up 125 tons or hay on the ranch besides.

The drillers are down 900 feet. Have struck lots of gas, but no oil, but they are going after it. Its a standard rig, 82 foot tower. The altitude is 7000 feet at the well. They say it is the highest well in the world.

I have lots of stock this winter. Sold my sheep last spring and made good money on them. They are selling from $11 to $12 per head. Hogs selling for 18c pound dressed. I am fattening 19 head now, and 22 head of shoats coming on.

I killed my bear the other day. He got loose and I did not try to rope him any more. Got the old 25-36 down and made a good job of it. He was about ten feet away and looking me right square in the face when I shot him. I kept him 18 months and he never did get tamed, always ready to fight, without notice. He was two and a half years old, and black as a crow. I am having a rug made of his skin with the mouth open, so I wont get lonesome. Come on up Barbra Sam will rope you one that you can take home with you.

Noah was to see me a few days ago. He was O. K. Well, here's hoping that everybody is well.

Luke Brown.

Perry VanHooser Tells of Farm Life In Colo. Drouth and Hail Damages Crops Extensively.

Kendrick, Colo.
Nov. 14, 1922.

Dear Editor:

If you will spare me space I will try and write a few things that I think might be of some interest to the people in Jackson County.

We have had a beautiful fall. The people here say it has been the nicest for several years. But one week ago we had a snow and wind storm, a week later it snowed again, but it was not so bad in Colo., as in Oklahoma and other western states.

The crops here was almost a complete failure, caused by dry weather and hail storm. The hail came just when the corn was in tassel, doing much damage to the corn and beans. Some people are not gathering what was left, because there wasn't enough to pay for gathering it.

But after all that I think this is the most healthy and the best farming country I have ever seen.

Uncle Bailey has 1280 acres of land in his care, 640 belongs to him, and he has 640 acres rented for a term of five years. He has a fine well of water and a fine herd of cattle and horses. We milk six cows and sell the cream. There is always a good price for cream, from 40c to 70c per pound.

As to the method of farming, it is for better than it is in Tennessee. Most of the farm tolls are riding ones and that is better than walking. I think.

We have the finest school building in the country. It was built last spring at a cost of $30,000. The name of the school is Edison High School. There are about 200 pupils in school now. Our principal is from Oklahoma. We have trucks to carry us to and from school.

I think I shall stay with uncle Bailey and go through high school.

I am well satisfied with my new home, I have no idea as to when I will come back to Tennessee.

As it is getting late I will ring off.

As ever,
Perry Van Hooser.
